COLBY'S ORGANIZATION.

Active Work Begun in Newark in Preparation for Hard Fight.

The supporters of Everett Colby who are trying to win for him the Republican nomination for State Senator in Essex County, N. J., have formed themselves into "The Republican Committee for Limited Franchises and Equal Tuxasion," Alderman William P. Martin, chairman of the com-mittee, gave out yesterday the following state-considerable extent the indeediacy of the troatey services was due to the fact that most of the franchises for the operation of street ruliways were granted without institution as to the period of enjoyment of this special privilege. In the fall of 1806 application was made to the Mayor and Common Council of Newark by the North Jersey Street. Railway Company for the consent of the city as property owner, to loop the City Hall. The discussion incident to this question developed further interest in regard to the main question of limited franchises. The Board of Trade of the City of Newark, composed of about one thousand members, consisting of the leading merchants, lawyers, bankers, physicians and business men of the city of Newark, having opposed the granting of the loop around the City Hall, then discussed the question of franchises, and adopted resolutions declaring that the board was opposed to the granting of unlimited franchises.

THE REPUBLICANS' POLICY.

CORPORATE INFLUENCE IN THE CITY HALL

My experience in city affairs leads me to believe that corporate influences are at work here similar to those Mr. Colby has observed in State affairs. For a long time I have felt that the situation in the Republican party requires drastic measures for relief from corporate domination, and I fear that if this is not done our party may meet defeat
at the voils in November.

I will not give way to any person in my loyal devotion to the interests of the Republican party and its doctrines, and claim for myself the right to discuss the present issues with my fellow Republicans of Essex County, and to endeavor to show them that the Republican party of Essex County should take a firm position in adherence to the principles enumerated in the declaration of Mr.
Colby. I believe in these principles and that Mr.
Colby thoroughly exemplifies them.

During the first year of Mr. Colby career in the legislature he showed his ability by successfully carrying through the Assembly the "Colby school law." This year, by his splendid leadership of the movements for limited franchises and equal taxation, he has shown the people of New-Jersey that he is a man of ability and energy, a man fearless
in his devotion to the interests of the people.

Mr. Martin also stated that since the declaration by Mr. Colby of his candidacy he and his supporters have received numerous expressions of favorable opinion, and for that reason it was deemed destrable to secure headquarters and to organize a committee for limited franchises and equal taxation, and the promotion of the other principles stated in the declaration.

EVERY ONE AFFECTED.

EVERY ONE AFFECTED.

Firmly believing that the limitation of the franchises of street using corporations, the annual assessment and taxation of these franchises at local rates, the taxation of main stem railway property at local rates, and opportunity for the people to express their choice for representatives in the United States Senate, are issues of first importance, affecting every citizen, especially the poor man, the tenant and the small real estate holder, as well as the manufacturer and every business man, and that these issues must be met, and by the Republican party. I have consented to act as chairman of the Republican committee for limited franchises and equal taxation.

MR. COLBY ASKS PUBLIC SUPPORT.

Rags, one of the fire dogs, is dead. The two canines were tramps, but some time ago developed a habit of running to the fire house in Parkst, every time the bell rang for a fire, and then going out with the horse and hose wagon of Columbian Hose Company. They also ran pellmell at 7 each evening at the test bell. Lately they have been anacying automobiles and drivers by running and barking at them. Rags bit a little boy, and despite much opposition on the part of their many admirers, he was shot by Patrolman Post.

New Lighting Company Will Give Improved Service to Northern Westchester Towns.

cass for illuminating purposes was first introfuced in this village in 1855, just fifty years ago. Some of the original mains have been in use over nce that time, and are now being unearthed and laced with pipe of adequate size by the North-Westchester Lighting Company, of which F. Stratton, of Mount Vernon, is president.

This company, which represents a consolidation of the gas and electric plants of this vilinge and he electric plants of the neighboring villages of m Manor, Pleasantville and Croton, promes to be a very important factor in the material dvancement of the territory in which it operates. In the matter of gas, which has long been a subect for complaint, the village sees light ahead in the new gas mains that are being laid in various directions, insuring improved service in districts al-eady supplied with gas, and the extension of the ervice to more remote sections, where gas has ofore been practically an unknown quantity.

In the same way the electric light service is to ted out of the rut of old methods and out-ofdate machinery, with which it has been locally handicapped, by the enlargement and improvement of the Ossining station, which will be equipped with powerful machinery of the most approved nattern, ctpable of supplying current, day and night, to all the towns in which the Northern Westchester operates. The contract for the enlargement of the dock on which the electric station is located has been given out and the work of rebuilding the company's street lines is now under way. The new company has undoubtedly made a zerr favorable impression upon the people from the fact that what they know of it has come from performances rather than promises.

Ossning has waited a long while for some way of solving the lighting question, and President Stratton and his company seem to offer a satisfactory solution to the problem. The electrical work is in charge of General Manager Stuart Wilder vice-president of the company, and an accomplished engineer, while the gas department is under the direction of Superintendent W. L. Secord, who is no less skilful in his line. cupable of supplying current, day and
